CARNIVAL KILLS CARKING CARE

Unanimity of purpose, hearty co-operation of all branches of the great Elks' Carnival undertaking—that's what is going to make the Alakea wharf mask ball and fun exposition the social event of the year, and the merriest occasion ever before witnessed in Honolulu.

The methods of the Elks in this enterprise, and it is an enterprise of no small proportions, might well be imitated by governing bodies. If, for example, the board of supervisors was as quick in passing bills or ordinances as are the Elks in passing appropriations for events at the coming carnival, the supervisory meetings would last about fifteen minutes.

But, of course, there is a difference, for the supervisors have to consider what the people want and therefore deliberate, while the Elks know already what the people want. The people want a good time, and the Elks vote them a good time, and there will be a good time.

The supervisors have to consider what kind of roads to build, mud or sand or bitulithic, or whatnot; while the Elks have no such hesitation, knowing full well that there is but one kind of a good time, and that is where carnival is let loose and good folks get together for the fascinating dance, carefree revelry and enjoyment of a large and varied selection of entertainments.

Referring to the present controversy over the "hula," it may be said that hula is probably one form of a universal word expressing joy, merriment or jumping for very gladness; and the word is closely akin to the common but popular word "hurray."

Hula, hura, hurra, hurrah, hurray—and there you are.
